Jets, artillery blast N. Viet death raid

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes and artillery pounded North Vietnamese positions inside Cambodia today as 213 enemy were killed in a screaming death charge against a U.S. infantry base, military spokesmen said.

The battle raged 45 miles northwest of Saigon around a base of the 25th Infantry Division called Frontier City, one mile from the Cambodian border.

North Vietnamese gunners hurled nearly 500 rockets and mortar shells at the base from firing sites ranging from just across the border to 2½ miles inside the neutral country, spokesmen said. The barrage preceded a fierce ground assault. But the 150 base defenders had been alerted by radar sightings early in the night and were well dug in—so well they only suffered seven men slightly wounded, the spokesmen said.

Associated Press correspondent Robert Ohman reported from the base more than 500 North Vietnamese troops from the Viet Cong's 9th Division stormed out of Cambodia at about 2 a.m. and hit the barged wire perimeter of the American camp.

Ohman reported about eight North Vietnamese soldiers broke through the perimeter with Bangalore torpedoes but were cut down.

Fixed-wing and helicopter gunships and artillery from several surrounding American bases lashed the enemy positions inside Cambodia, with shells exploding about 1,000 yards across the border.

"A lot of that stuff was in Cambodia," said one officer. "When we receive fire we engage them. We don't wait to ask Sihanouk if it's in his country."

This referred to Cambodian Prince Sihanouk, who has complained in the past about American and South Vietnamese violations of his border and severed diplomatic relations with Washington because of this. U.S. commanders on the front are authorized to fire back if fired on from enemy sanctuaries on the Cambodian side.

Besides the North Vietnamese rocket launchers and mortars firing on the base, field reports said three .50-caliber antiaircraft machine guns opened fire on helicopter gunships and World War II vintage C47s armed with rapid-firing Gatling guns that spew out 18,000 rounds a minute. The enemy guns were silenced and none of the planes were hit, spokesmen said.

Air Force tactical fighter-bombers also were called in to support the American base, but they apparently stayed on the Vietnamese side of the border, according to first reports.

Some of the enemy assault force of 400 men got to the outer barbed wire perimeter of Frontier City, but the two 105mm howitzers inside the camp were lowered to hurl a point-blank crossfire of "beehive" shells into the attackers. Several enemy bodies were found strung along the barbed wire at daybreak.

"There were groups of North Vietnamese bodies strung from the Cambodian border right up to Frontier City," said one officer.

The reports also said numerous enemy bodies were dragged back across the border. Some were spotted being placed on oxcarts inside Cambodia.

Dearden Arrives In Rome

ROME (AP) — Cardinal-designate John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, landed in Rome today for his investiture Monday at a consistory called by Pope Paul VI.

The archbishop was accompanied by 143 friends from the Detroit archdiocese when his chartered airliner arrived at Ciampino Airport shortly before 2 p.m.

(Rev. Fr. William King, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church, also is in Rome to witness the investiture.)

He was welcomed by the Most Rev. James Hickey, rector of the North American College in Rome and former auxiliary bishop of Saginaw, Mich., and a group of monsignors and priests.

Archbishop Dearden was the second of the four American cardinals-designate to arrive for the consistory. Archbishop John J. Carberry of St. Louis flew here with two planeloads of friends and well wishers on Thursday.

Archbishop Dearden was the first off the plane. He looked tired after the 9½-hour flight from Detroit with a stopover in New York.

"It's always good to get back to Rome," he said, "but this time is rather special."

The archbishop and 32 other prelates will become princes of the church when Pope Paul announces their names to senior cardinals at the consistory.

Wind, rain shake Flood area officials

By the Associated Press
Predictions of high winds and possible heavy rains over the weekend have shaken the calm confidence of officials in the Quad Cities, an industrial area of Illinois and Iowa along the flooding Mississippi River.

Until the U.S. Weather Bureau came out with the bleak predictions, flood-control officials and the Army Corps of Engineers in the area felt secure behind the high dikes the engineers estimated have averted $1 billion damage along the Mississippi.

Winds of 23 to 35 miles an hour could cause wave action that would raise the water level another half a foot or more, the engineers said. And, there is a fear that heavy rains would undermine and weaken the earthen dikes. The flood crest of the Mississippi reached the Quad Cities area Friday, carrying 144.7 billion gallons a day—double the river's normal volume.

Around-the-clock patrols were in use on the levees and dikes under a federal flood prevention program called "Operation Foresight."

The patrols extend upstream almost 100 miles to Dubuque, Iowa, with the ground watch by peace officers and National Guardsmen augmented by helicopters.

President Nixon declared Iowa a major disaster area Friday and allocated $750,000 initially for assistance, including repair or replacement of public facilities damaged by the flooding.

Gov. Robert D. Ray reported that 26 counties in central and northwestern Iowa have suffered heavy flood damage and 10 counties along the Mississippi in the eastern part of Iowa are in critical danger.

At Clinton, Iowa, the river was five feet over flood stage.

Sirhan Motions Delayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The date for defense motions for a new trial and the formal sentencing of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was postponed Friday from May 14 to May 21.

Judge Herbert V. Walker set the new date after a six-minute hearing. Grant Cooper, chief defense counsel, requested the change because of a prior commitment, and the prosecution had no objection.

Sirhan, 25-year-old Jordanian Arab, was condemned to the gas chamber Wednesday by a jury which earlier found him guilty of first degree murder in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June.

Sirhan took no apparent interest in the continuance hearing.

Cavanagh Cleared By jury

DETROIT (AP) — A jury deliberated only 40 minutes Friday before clearing Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of a civil suit in which his former sister-in-law said she was beaten by him and demanded $100,000 in damages.

"This hasn't been pleasant for you, for the court or for the parties," Wayne County Circuit Judge Edward S. Piggins told the jury after the verdict.

The 40-year-old Detroit mayor was sued by Mrs. Ruth O. Martin, 49, of St. Clair, the sister of Cavanagh's former wife.

The mayor and his 38-year-old wife, Mary, were divorced last year in a case involving a battle for custody of their eight children. The children were split up between the parents.

Mrs. Martin alleged the mayor had kicked her during an argument at the mayor's mansion on July 17, 1968. Mrs. Cavanagh supported the charges. However, the mayor denied the allegations and said he had been attacked by both women and that Mrs. Martin hit him on the head and shoulders with high-heeled shoes.

James A. Wright, 30, of Dearborn Heights, the jury's foreman, said two ballots were taken on the verdict, with the final vote being 11-1. Only ten votes are needed to decide a civil suit.

Evacuated town Awaits all-clear

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — Residents of East Germantown, evacuated after a fiery derailment of a train having dangerous chemicals, spent the night in the homes of relatives and friends, passing up offers of public aid.

They awaited a meeting today when officials promised a decision on whether they could return to their homes. The town of about 375 persons was evacuated in 30 minutes early Friday after 61 cars of a 110-car Penn Central freight train derailed along a three-mile stretch west of Richmond in eastern Indiana.

Explosions touched off fires that engulfed piles of wrecked box cars and tankers. Investigators said they were most concerned about butyl acetate which dripped from one tanker and another sealed tanker containing toxic vinyl chloride.

Butyl acetate can cause vomiting and skin irritation. The fires were brought under control Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies mounted on horseback patrolled around the empty houses.

A spokesman for the railroad said the derailment apparently was caused when part of the framework carrying wheels of the 18th car collapsed. He said marks showed part of the frame was dragging about 1½ miles before the derailment.

The derailment occurred in a field at the edge of East Germantown and there were no injuries.

Families in the hamlet have many relatives in the neighboring communities of Cambridge City, Milton and Dublin, one resident said.

Ex-YHS athlete Dies in mishap

Gerald (Jerry) Harris, 21, of 2380 Harding Ave., was killed early this morning in a one-car accident in Toledo.

Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Harris, was a former athlete at Ypsilanti High and Washtenaw Community College.

Robert Peter Kosky, also 21, of 855 Holmes Rd., the driver of the auto, was listed in "fairly good" condition at Toledo Hospital. Harris was dead on arrival.

According to Toledo police, the accident occurred at 2:10 a.m. at Reynolds and Florita Sts. in Toledo.

The car was going around a curve and hit two poles, one wooden and one steel. The steel pole struck the passenger side of the auto, police said.

The car skidded some 200-300 feet with the motor and transmission coming out of the car. They were found some 58 feet from the last point of impact.

Toledo police cited Kosky for operating a vehicle without due regard for safety.

At the time of his death, Harris was a student at Washtenaw Community Col-

DeGaulle holes up to await vote

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle went into seclusion at his country retreat today, awaiting the outcome of the national referendum on which he has staked his presidency.

In a nationwide radio and television address Friday night he urged the French to vote for the reforms in the referendum, saying "If I am disavowed by a majority among you my present task as chief of state would obviously become impossible and I would immediately cease the exercise of my functions."

The outcome of Sunday's vote is anything but certain. A public opinion poll published late Friday by France-Soir, the nation's most widely-read newspaper, showed 51 per cent of the voters plan to say "no" to De Gaulle and 49 per cent "yes."

This means 200,000 votes, about one per cent of those expected to cast ballots, could determine whether De Gaulle returns to Paris.

De Gaulle's last minute address was an attempt to change the minds of wavering voters and a call for a "show of confidence" in the task he began more than 10 years ago "to give our country the democratic institutions adapted to our people."

There are dissident Gaullists who might vote "no" just to get a change, assuming that former Premier Georges Pompidou would take over and assure an orderly succession.

To them De Gaulle said for the first time that he would step down in 1972.

"Finally at the end of the regular term, without rending and without upheaval, turning the last page in the chapter of our history which I opened four years ago, I will transmit my official charge to the one that you will have elected to assume it after me," De Gaulle said.

But as Guy Mollet, the Socialist party leader, said after the De Gaulle declaration: "No one ever asked him to shorten his term or to tie his fate to an unconstitutional referendum."

Indeed, one of the unanswered questions in the referendum is why De Gaulle chose to risk his political life on a reform variously characterized as incomplete, inconsistent, unconstitutional, badly timed and too complex for the average voter to understand.

De Gaulle, 78 years old, certainly has his reasons, but as so often before he has kept his own counsel.

ALMOST EVERYTHING has a license these days, including a telephone pole on the corner of Cornell St. and Huron River Dr. The pole's license, however, is a valid 1969 Michigan auto plate. —Press Photo

THE WORLD OF RELIGION

Idioms reveal religious attitudes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The way religious people talk is the tip-off. It has changed, subtly. And that clue hints at a basic change in their attitude toward God's activity in the world.

The transition was pointed out by a Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. Dennis J. Geaney, of St. Louis, who detected the symptoms of it in current idioms of speech.

Once was the day, he notes, when personal conversation and letters of believers were sprinkled with phrases such as, "We'll see you next year, God willing," our "Uncle Tim is getting over his lumbago, Thank God."

Those frequent references to divine decision in virtually every turn and circumstance in life, he says, indicated a certain, fatalistic view of God's relationship to man that is fading away—and so is the frequency of the usages.

"It's upsetting to many people," he said in a telephone interview. "but it's something we have to face realistically."

In the old-time attitude, he says, people tended to duck

DEANE BAKER has been named the 1969 General Industry Chairman of National Bible Week November 23 through the 30th. Bible Week is sponsored jointly by the interfaith Laymen's National Bible Committee, the American Bible Society, and the Catholic Bible Association. Baker is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor. He is a former elder of the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Grand Rapids.

their own responsibilities, for events, and shift the blame to providence. "God's will controlled all life and there was not too much of us could do about it except ask God to intervene," he says, and then gamely accept whatever happened as divine decree.

But that view is on the wane, he adds, and the change brings out a different, developing concept of God's participation in human affairs. A columnist for many diocesan newspapers, the Augustinian priest writes:

"The new view sees God as giving to man all the potential for working out his destiny, to make sense out of life, and to face all the uncertainties and ambiguities with his native resources."

"This is not denial of God's action in man's life, but rather God leaving man alone, like parents do, with adult children. Because the parents withdraw their protectiveness does not mean the adult offspring are less loved."

"Quite the contrary. Parents who are always interfering in the growing up process of their children are preventing them from becoming mature responsible adults."

Boston-born Father Geaney, a long-time teacher and pastor in Chicago who recently became superior of the Augustinian Academy in St. Louis, says the emergence of the change in Christians' ways of speaking struck him particularly when a noted nun artist, former Sister Corita Kent, announced she was leaving her religious order.

She said then, "I've reached the point where I want to do a different thing. You should be true to your own conscience." That, she added, expresses the "good, old-fashioned way of saying you know what God's will is."

Father Geaney said the changed understanding undoubtedly makes "many people uncomfortable," since "most of us do not like to make decisions" and would rather drift along leaving choices to be determined by God or church.

That older style, assuming that "life was ruled or controlled by the outside," is what Father Geaney calls the "security blanket" approach.

Its "acceptance of life, no matter what it was like—as God's will—was very comforting," he says. "It also legitimized one's irresponsibility or failure to bring about social changes."

But it is being cast aside, he adds, in the understanding of man's relation both to God and to the church, which also is putting more emphasis on the responsibility of individuals to make decisions on the basis of conscience.

Archaeologist
To test theory

A casting of human feet which would wear a size 23 shoe are displayed at the Bethany Bible Church at 4220 Packard Rd. in conjunction with the 6 p.m. Sunday talk set by a Christian Archaeologist Wescott

The casting of footprints was found along with prints of dinosaurs in the Paluxy River bed near Glen Rose, Texas in 1910. The Rev. Alfred Lackey, pastor at Bethany, said that this size 23 print is "just a small one" and "only one of hundreds found."

The discovery is unique because science has separated the dinosaur age and the origin of man on earth by 70 million years or more.

This anachronism which pushes the burden of proof on today's evolutionary theory will be discussed and correlated with the Genesis account of the Noach Flood explained M. R. Lackey.

Power of faith

By Woodi Ishmael

To Miss Betty Moul faith is love and service. She has found her place to love and serve halfway around the world at An Lac orphanage in Saigon. Betty first visited An Lac (an orphanage of 400 children) in 1961 during a vacation tour of Asia. She discontinued her tour and spent the rest of her time at the orphanage. Her love went out to the children and Madame Vu Thi Ngai, a North Vietnamese aristocrat who fled south and is the founder and moving spirit of the orphanage. They both had been inspired by Dr. Tom Dooley, Miss Moul, who is private secretary to Sen. Jacob K. Javits, (R-N.Y.) has for the past five years paid her own way back to

An Lac and spent her month's vacation each year working with the children. Aside from her busy life as a private secretary to a senator, Betty spends her spare time raising money and getting clothing and medical supplies for An Lac. Five dollars a month will feed and clothe a child. She also finds time to give slide lectures on An Lac to church and civic groups. In order to be more efficient at the orphanage, she took a course in infant care at The New York Foundling Hospital. To talk to Betty Moul is to see the light of faith shining in her eyes when she says, "It is really love; you have to love people to help them."

Bishops plead for Ukraine church

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — In an appeal in "Defense of the Church of Silence" in Ukraine, three Ukrainian Catholic Bishops of the United States called on world leadership to intercede through their respective governments and church hierarchies on behalf of the persecuted people of Ukraine and their church.

Signed by Metropolitan Ambrose Senyshyn of Philadelphia, Bishop Joseph M. Schmonduik of Stamford, and Bishop Jaroslav Gabro of Chicago, the appeal deals with the recent arrest of Ukrainian Catholic Welychkovsky, who was arrested by agents on Jan. 27, 1969, in Lviv and reportedly imprisoned in Moscow.

The arrested archbishop was said to have been consecrated in secret and to have been carrying on his duties for Catholic Ukrainians. The Ukrainian Catholic Church organization had been destroyed by the Soviet government in 1945-46, but millions of Ukrainian Catholic faithful have refused to accept Communist-backed Russian Orthodoxy to this day and continue to worship their Catholic religion secretly.

Bible college
Plans 'Preview'

Detroit Bible College is planning its second annual Saturday, May 3, it is announced by Dr. Wendell G. Johnston, president of the college. The event is designed to familiarize area high school juniors and seniors with the varied aspects of life on a college campus. Additional information concerning the "Collegiate Preview" may be obtained by contacting the College at UN 4-8400. There is a charge of $3.50 to attend. Reservations are necessary.

The memorandum-appeal newspapers in which the Ukrainian Catholic Church was assailed as an "instrument of Western intelligence agencies" and as an obstacle to "Communist progress and development" in Ukraine. It also cited the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights, to which both the USSR and the Ukrainian SSR are signatories, and which provides for complete religious freedom.

Asking for prayers for the "Church of Silence" of Ukraine, the Ukrainian Catholic Bishops of the U.S. appealed for world support for the suffering people of Ukraine in their quest of freedom.

Grass fire Is battled On foot

Ypsilanti Township firemen today fought a spreading grass and brush fire in a mile square area one-half mile off the road in the Stony Creek and Textile Rd. area.

Unable to get a truck to the scene, firemen were forced to walk a half mile to "fight the blaze with a five-gallon can of water on our back and a broom."

At last reports the fire was "going good" in a pine tree area.

Firemen were trying to reach the blaze through the Sportsman Club area on Ellis Rd.

Smoke could be seen from downtown Ypsilanti.

One fireman radioed for additional help to bring brooms. "We haven't enough equipment up here," he said.

Cole Real Estate Opens 2nd office

William R. Cole is in the process of doubling his real estate business.

The Bill Cole Realty Co., which last year opened a new office at 103 Ecorse Rd., now has opened a second office at 2418 W. Washtenaw Ave.

The first office employs a staff of 10 and Cole said he soon hopes to have 10 at the west side office. The new office, already open, is being converted from a ranch-type brick home. He said the conversion will be completed in two to three months.

Cole said the business was started by his father, John P. Cole, in 1947. The elder Cole was a veteran realtor in the Ypsilanti area. He died last year at the age of 79.

There is now a third generation Cole in the profession with Bill Cole's nephew, Glenn Allen Cole, 22, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, being office manager of the Ecorse Rd.

Manger of the Washtenaw Ave. office is Richard C. Hill.

Cole said that although the firm deals in general realty sales, it specializes in homes. He said he and his staff have become experts in FHA financing.

He added that in spite of today's tight money situation, the demand for homes is greater than the supply. He said homes in the $18,000 to $25,000 range are very rare.

Estabrook Student Wins trip

Lawrence W. Hamilton, 11, will represent the Ypsilanti area at the Automobile Club of Michigan's 33rd annual spring school safety patrol trip at Gettysburg, Pa., May 8 through May 11.

Larry, a sixth grade student at Estabrook School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vanzetti M. Hamilton of 712 Emmet St.

He will be among 130 youths from 96 Michigan cities taking the four-day, all-expense-paid trip as a guest of the Auto Club.

The trip is timed to coincide with National Safety Patrol Week, celebrated this year from May 4 through May 10. Sen. Robert Griffin will welcome the patrolers to Washington, D.C., where they will stop on their way to Gettysburg.

Girl Scouts Net $61,000 With cookies

Cookie sales this year by girls in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council netted a profit of $61,394.76 after taxes, according to a report released by Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing of Plymouth, president of the council.

The money will be used at Camp Linden to pay off the land mortgage, expand the swimming and boating area and to provide minor improvements.

Almost 500 scouts attended a resident camp at Linden last summer and 2,000 scouts use the site annually for year-round troop camping.

The site is available to all Girl Scouts in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

In addition to the profit realized by the council, troops earned a $14,617.80 profit from the cookie sale. This money will be used for troop camping, service projects and the purchase of permanent troop equipment.

There were 49,812 boxes of cookies sold in the eastern Washtenaw County area.

Citizens' radio aids Missing girl hunt

By DOROTHY LASKEY
Of The Press Staff

"This is KRM 7746, the Ann Arbor Citizens Band Emergency Group control calling all units. Be on the alert for missing girl last seen ..."

Within the last months, calls like this have broken the radio silence for 30 units who operate as the "Ann Arbor C. B. Emergency Group," which serves Washtenaw County.

The group was formed after a tornado hit the Milan area in the spring of 1965, said Harold R. Toutant, second in command of the units. He explained the group was formed to provide independent emergency communications for the entire county in times of natural disaster and civil strife.

Toutant said the group which has grown from a core of five members is basically a communications and transportation squad. He said their services are available to all police departments and that the Civil Defense Office has preemptory rights to their time.

Any alert or call for aid can be heard 24 hours a day at the homes of Toutant and Jerry W. Kitchen, first commander, who have police monitors. Toutant said his wife listens to the monitors when he isn't at home.

The men have full time jobs plus the full time interest in emergency aid. Toutant said the wives of members command control bases when the men are out in the mobile units.

A group member is required by the by-laws of the organization to carry an identification card, four flares, fire extinguisher, blanket, flashlight, helmet and first-aid kit.

In order for a person to be eligible for club membership, he must have a citizens' band radio in his car and a base. Toutant explained that a prospective member must demonstrate the ability to use a radio properly and pass a personal investigation.

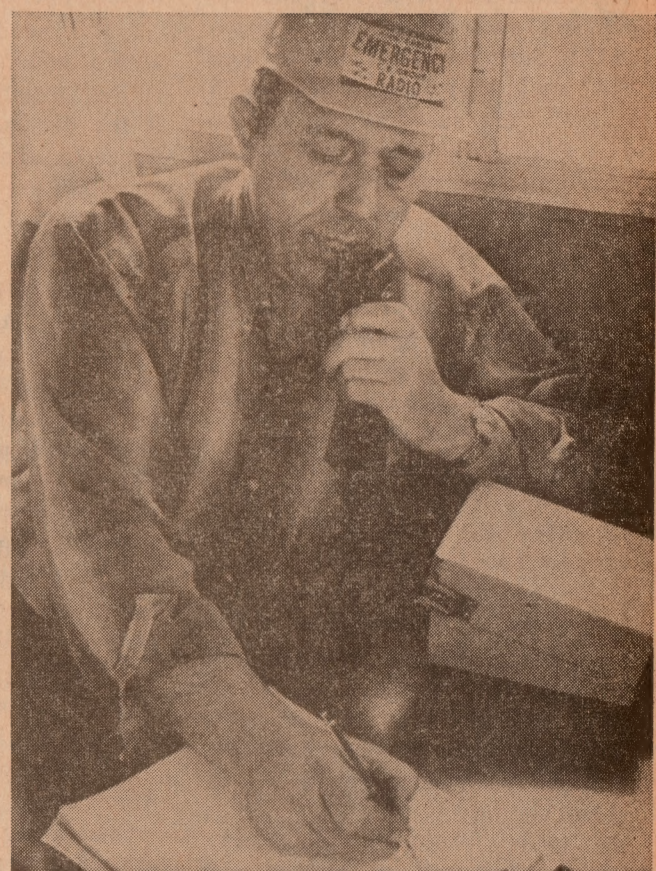

A trailer also set up with a radio and emergency equipment serves as a control base during emergency operations. Toutant said that, in the trailer, the men have framed and displayed the many letters of thanks they receive after searching for lost children and assisting in gathering donations and running pick-up for Goodwill clothing drives and Muscular Dystrophy canvasses.

Cub members own their own equipment and operate within a non-profit structure. The individual members and the entire group volunteer their services to police agencies whenever possible.

An example of the emergency CBIs work was seen in Ypsilanti a few months ago when members monitoring an alert about a car stolen from a real estate agency parking lot assisted police in seizing the vehicle within two hours of the alert.

"The men like action and want to keep on the move," said Toutant as he noted that the group holds fake runs in order to stay keen on procedures.

As a public service the men work with Boy Scout units. They manned checkpoints at the recent Scout Road-Rally and are planning to race in the Sea Scout canoe race held along the Huron River from the Kensington Park to Dexter-Huron Metropolitan Park area on May 24.

Color film documentary Enhances PCHA image

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority has prepared a 30-minute series of color film clips, with a taped commentary, to be presented before service clubs and other organizations to enhance the "image" of the PCHA.

The series was prepared by Lou Graff, public relations man retained by the PCHA.

The pictures show the services provided by the four PCHA hospitals located in Ypsilanti (Beyer Memorial), Wayne, Lincoln Park and Trenton.

They also point up the costs of medical care and how they can be financed.

Also introduced at the meeting of the directors was a list of assessments placed on the 23 member communities, based on a .4 of a mill levy.

MEMO FROM A CAR DEALER

FABULOUS IS THE WORD FOR IT!

The franchised auto dealer, some 30,000 of them, crank out multi-unit sales years with less effort than nearly twice the number of dealers who sold half this volume a few decades ago.

He is the biggest independent retailer left on Main Streets of America with annual volume in the million dollar class. Yet he can make a satisfactory profit, if he retains a few pennies on each dollar sale (1.2% of Sales — National Average).

He represents an industry that is the basis for employment of one worker in every seven in the U.S.A. His merchandise is produced by the worlds most advanced manufacturing plants. Through his manufacturers, associations and finance sources he is better informed of industry trends, operating data and sales — service — credit techniques than any retailer anywhere.

He has as prospects almost every able-bodied adult and teenager everywhere. He is the only merchant who can get the names and addresses of ALL the people who own cars. He is a bellringer in the economy — an aggressive, forward-looking merchandiser — a community leader — bar none ... BUT — HE CAN LOOSE HIS SHIRT faster than any other retailer of consequence.

FORGETTING THE "LITTLE THINGS" like customers and employees is a good start.
See you next Saturday.

High Court strikes again, But to whose benefit?

Another crippling blow, again in the name of "justice", has been struck against police and other authorities whose job it is to uphold justice — law and order.

The latest weight tied around the policeman's neck is another decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled 6-2 this week that fingerprints taken "illegally" from suspects can not be used as evidence in court. The ruling sharply limits the power of police to arrest people solely for the sake of investigations.

The six justices concurred that fingerprints taken from suspects picked up in a dragnet cannot be used as evidence in prosecuting them. But the decision raises the question of whether fingerprints are now evidence or just a form of identification. In the past, the court has recognized fingerprints as identification. Perhaps, the court should now specify when fingerprints change from identification to evidence.

Justice Potter Stewart, one of the two dissenting judges, stated that fingerprints are merely a means of identification, like a car or eye color, and that as such, recording fingerprints does not violate anyone's constitutional rights.

The court's majority opinion was based on provisions of the Fourth Amendment which it said shields citizens against "the harassment and in ignominy incident to involuntary detention."

On the contrary, the ruling seems to be another in a long series of harassments of police work by the liberal High Court.

Such pronouncements by the Supreme Court usually have little direct day-to-day effect on the average American. But this ruling could well be felt in five current cases in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

Five young girls have been slain in this area in the last 21 months, and five police agencies are concentrating all their efforts on apprehending the killers. Few would favor wholesale arrests of hundreds of possible suspects, but police should at least be able to fingerprint suspects in the perverted slayings without first obtaining permission from a judge or attorney.

In a controversial Detroit case, the effect of the new court ruling is still up in the air. There, 142 persons were arrested in a church where gunmen had fled after a patrolman was killed and his partner critically wounded.

The head of the Detroit patrolmen's union terms the latest court ruling "a final blow" to law and order if the decision limiting the ability of police to take fingerprints means "you could not use some form of elimination of suspects."

Justice Hugo L. Black, the other dissenting judge, said in his dissent, "I think it is high time this court, in the interest of the administration of criminal justice, made a new appraisal of the language and history of the Fourth Amendment and cut it down to its intended size."

He added, "Such a judicial action would, I believe, make our cities a safer place for men and women and children to live."

Speaking for the majority, however, Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., wrote:

"To argue that the Fourth Amendment does not apply to the investigatory stage is fundamentally to misconceive the purposes of the Fourth Amendment. Investigatory seizures would subject unlimited numbers of innocent persons to the harassment and ignominy incident to involuntary detention."

"Nothing is more clear than that the Fourth Amendment was meant to prevent wholesale intrusions upon the personal security of our citizenry, whether these intrusions be termed 'arrest' or 'investigatory detentions'."

Justice Brennan's idealistic words are fine, but it seems high time the court began restudying the Constitution, which was meant to protect and serve the majority.

High Court decisions many times in the past decade have ended up as protection for the criminal and minority, disregarding "our citizenry."

Who is to protect us — the majority — from those the courts are protecting?

An Editor's Outlook

Debate over drug center Brings issue to the fore

One of the fancy new words now much in vogue in government and editorial circles is "dente." It is a French word for "relaxation," although such is the complication of the French language that "presser la dente" means "to pull the triggers."

The ominous possibility that the second definition may follow the first is worth considering now that a great number of Americans are avidly seeking a detente (or relaxation) in relations with Russia on the theory that Russia is hungry for such a peace and that if we only show sufficient trust and offer sufficient concessions it can be achieved.

This is an old American hope, dating back at least 24 years to the conference at Yalta. There an ill Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose sands had nearly run out, was convinced in spite of the grumbles of Winston Churchill that if he offered enough sweeping concessions to Josef Stalin the dark Russian suspicions would evaporate and Stalin would become a useful partner in reconstructing a ravaged world.

One of Roosevelt's advisers, of course, was Alger Hiss.

In an article in the latest Intercollegiate Review, Dr. Joseph Shiebel, head of Russian studies at Georgetown University, examines the holders of this new optimism that in spite of the record since Yalta the Russian leadership has fundamentally changed.

There are, says Dr. Shiebel, the cynics who have no strong ideologies or convictions, themselves, and who cannot bring themselves to believe that the Russian leadership has, either.

The cynics, in Dr. Shiebel's words, "see in the Soviet leadership an essentially good-natured group of problem-solvers, reasonable and intelligent though fallible men who pragmatically do the best they can in maintaining the Soviet position in international relations from day to day."

Oddly, these same cynics may see the white Rhodesians, Ku Klux Klanners, John Birchers, Arabs or Gaullists as driven by implacable fanaticisms against whom persuasion is futile, but not the Russian leaders.

20 YEARS AGO
April 26, 1949 — Several Ypsilanti merchants will have exhibit booths at the annual Builders Show at the Ann Arbor fairgrounds. The show begins tonight and runs through Sunday evening. A special feature this year will be an auto show.

American Legion Post 282 became the first organization to enter a float in the May 19 parade which will mark the opening of the Michigan State Normal College 3-day centennial celebration.

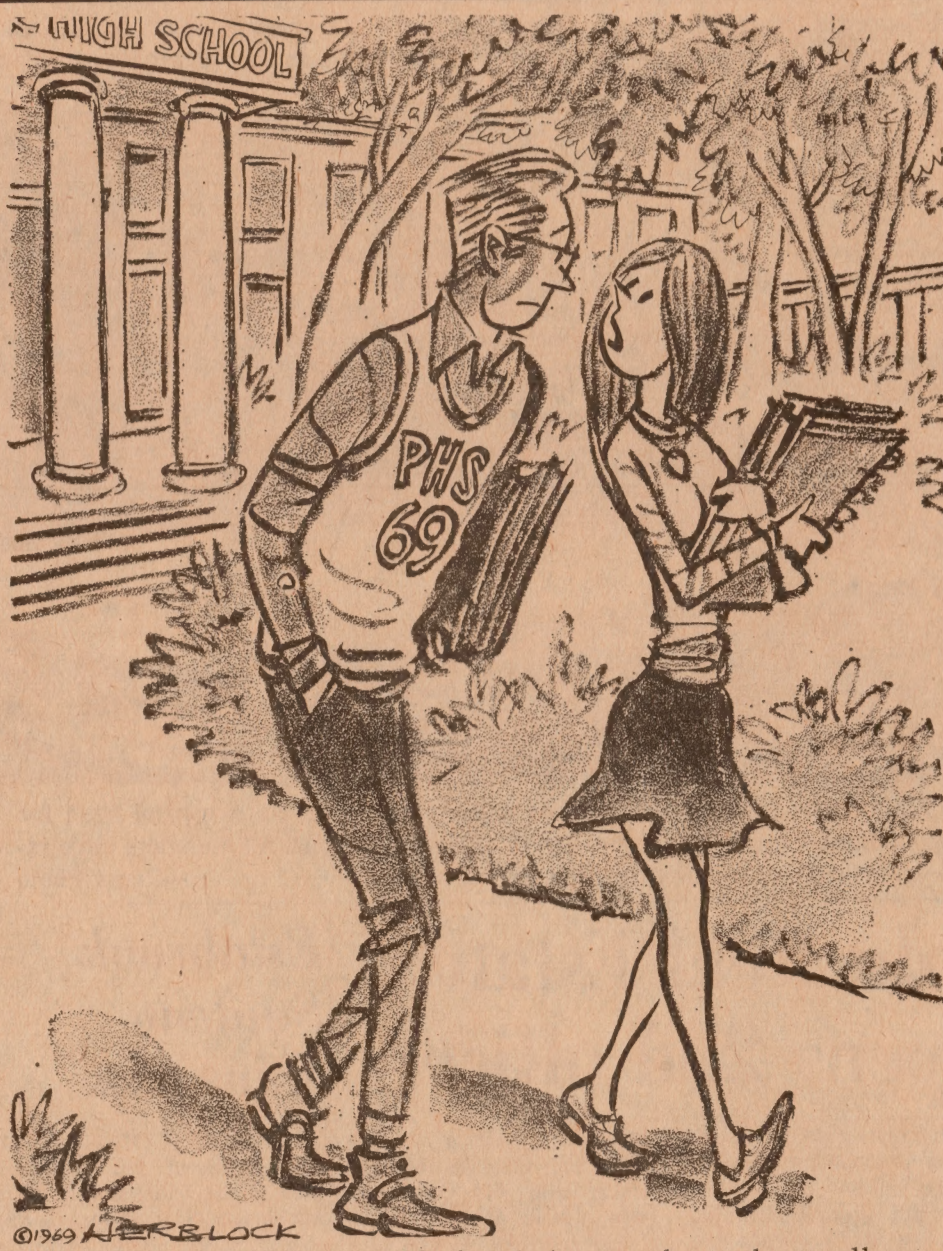

Post Commander Eugene Bostrom said the float will be symbolic of the school's success in producing good citizens during its history.

50 YEARS AGO
April 26, 1919 — In all the years of Ypsilanti's life there never was an opportunity brought to its doors by the Board of Commerce as was last night.

At a meeting of interested men and members of the board plans for moving the Commerce Motor Truck Co. from Detroit to Ypsilanti were outlined. Ready response was voiced by all men present thus virtually insuring the early addition of the plant to the developing industry of the city.

A theater party consisting of 28 couples, the men from Alpha Tau Delta fraternity, went to Detroit this afternoon to attend "The Passing Show" at a Detroit theater. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan A. Harvey and Mrs. and Mrs. Frederick B. McKay chaperoned the party.

'It might have been a child'

TO THE EDITOR:
An open letter to a dog poisoner:

This is to inform you that your "job" was well done. Our dog Shadow was dead by 8:30 Wednesday morning. I would like now to ask you if you have an answer for my two-year-old daughter when she calls, "where's Shadow?" or if you have considered the grief and pain you have caused us over the loss of our pet.

Our backyard is fenced in and Shadow bothered no one. He was not allowed to run around the neighborhood and when he was not in the backyard, he was in the house.

Most of all, I wonder if you had considered the possibility or cared at all that a small child might have gotten hold of the poisoned meat and today instead of mourning the loss of our dog, we might have been mourning the death of a child. I hope you will consider this before you again poison someone else's pet.

'We have won' In Willow Run

TO THE EDITOR:
To The Honorable Willow Run School Board:

Congratulations to the students of Willow Run! They put the election over! You have won, I think I'm glad, but let's see what is going to happen.

Let's see some changes for the better. True, there were no promises for the future, there were only threats to be used if it didn't pass, but please try to renew our faith in you by making changes for the better and make our money count.

Please believe we are going to be watching you even more than before, and for the sake of my two children and all the others make our school one to be proud of. You have the means to do it!

Mother urges Investigations

TO THE EDITOR:
I would like to comment on the letter Wednesday from Grandmother.

Since I am the mother of a daughter, I can appreciate the concern of The Press, the police and our Sheriff's Department.

I for one like to know what is going on. We can not ignore these things and make them go away. We will have to face up to what is going on.

I and I'm quite sure these dead girls' parents feel as I would were it my daughter. I'd at least know she hadn't been forgotten. Even though her killers hadn't been caught, I'd feel every one was doing all they could to bring whoever it was to justice.

I just hope The Press continues its good work.

Nixon forecasts Peace 'break-out' In Vietnam war

WASHINGTON — An impressive optimism pervades the Nixon Administration over the prospects of peace in Vietnam.

Visitors to the highest levels of government come away convinced that something of an unusual nature is in the wind.

Significantly, this attitude is most pronounced in the White House from the President.

"We are going to have peace in Vietnam," one visitor was told flatly, "and that is a dead certainty."

In all the official talk about the possibility of peace, specifics are notably lacking. No top official is willing to attach a timetable to his prediction nor to indicate or speculate on how a cessation of hostilities may be brought about.

But something different about this strain of optimism sets it apart from the frequent expressions of confidence and predictions of Asian victory which marked the Johnson Administration's handling of the war.

This heightened optimism is underscored by obvious movement in the Paris negotiations and on other levels which relate to the Vietnamese war.

Many of the developments taking place seem to be separate issues but actually have some important bearing on the peace question. One of these was the totally unexpected action of the United States some days ago in launching a new initiative for resumption of diplomatic relations with Cambodia.

This move, which was immediately welcomed by Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk, conceded U. S. policy may have the effect of stabilizing what heretofore has been an extremely bothersome territorial consideration in the Vietnamese war.

In keeping with the administration policy of conducting its Vietnam negotiations in private, the Cambodian initiative was taken without reference to preliminary maneuvers. Yet it was fully apparent that some advance arrangements had been made and agreed upon.

What is becoming obvious in the government's approach

By Sen.
Barry F.
Goldwater

to the Vietnam situation is that President Nixon and his advisers are moving deliberately and quietly. New approaches are being explored, and some of them are being welcomed by the Communist enemy. But the President has not ignored the importance of military pressure.

***

The administration understands it does not have unlimited time to bring about meaningful progress toward ending the war. And I assure you that President Nixon regards his campaign promise to end the Vietnam hostilities as a sacred trust. Mr. Nixon shows no inclination to regard that promise as any empty gesture required of him by the demands of campaign electioneering. He gave no detailed explanation of how he intended to accomplish this objective. Nor does he now as President provide a blueprint for bringing peace.

This determination not to announce to the entire world each and every anticipated move in the Nixon peace offensive enhances the chances of its success. We have seen how the best intentions of the most honorable men of good will can be twisted and misinterpreted in such situations.

The President is dealing with a question which means life or death to many American youths, as well as possible heartbreak to thousands of American families. He is fully justified in approaching this delicate problem with caution and circumspection.

It is encouraging that the men most directly involved in the Vietnamese effort believe that peace will "break out" before too long.

China gives Ultimatum To India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Reliable sources said today Communist China gave India a 24-hour ultimatum Wednesday to withdraw its troops from the strategic Nathu La pass on the Sikkimese-Tibetan border.

Haney Leaves NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Haney, scrubbed as "The Voice of Apollo" only a few months before the program's scheduled manned landing on the moon, says he is quitting the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The husky former Washington newsman announced his resignation in an interview after a three-hour meeting here with Julian Scheer, the NASA official Haney accuses of "badgering" him for weeks.

"We did not shake hands when we parted," Haney said Friday. "We found no area of accommodation at all."

Haney was relieved last Tuesday from his $21,000 a year job as public affairs chief of the Manned Space Flight Center at Houston, Tex., after a series of exchanges with Scheer.

The space agency said it was making some changes which included moving Haney to Washington and replacing him at Houston with Brian Duff, a former Associated Press newsman.

Haney told newsmen in Houston he and Scheer, NASA's over-all boss of public affairs in Washington, had carried on a running battle for some time.

Scheer said only: "We have made a move that we feel strengthens the organization. This is a simple case of using two very good people where they can best serve our needs."

Haney had been ordered to report to NASA's Washington headquarters next Monday, but he turned up Thursday night at the White House Photographers' Association and told a newsmen of the planned showdown with Scheer.

Indian and Chinese troops clashed there in September 1967.

The informants said the local Indian commander on the border gave a counter-warning before the deadline expired, saying Indian troops would retaliate if China opened fire on their positions. The Chinese deadline expired at noon Thursday without incident, according to several sources in New Delhi. Indian troops stationed around Nathu La were reported on full alert.

The chief of the army staff, General P. P. Kumaramangalam hastened from the capital Friday for a trip to the eastern front.

The informants said the Chinese warning focused on the Chumbi Valley, which separates the two Indian-protected kingdoms of Bhutan and Sikkim. Indian and Chinese troops face each other at close range in the Himalayas of Sikkim.

The warning, understood to have been delivered through diplomatic channels, followed a heightened campaign of Chinese propaganda attacks against Indian leaders.

Radio Peking charged last Wednesday that India is "frantically expanding its armament and making war preparations."

A Peking broadcast earlier in the month warned: "No matter when and where you invade us, no matter whether you come by yourselves or together with your masters, the Soviet revisionists, you shall be beaten black and blue."

The Chinese made similar statements before fighting broke out for a week in September 1967 at Nathu La pass in the Chumbi Valley.

The informants noted that New Delhi, which earlier this year attempted to open a diplomatic dialogue with Peking, has recently shifted to a less cordial stance.

Abernathy arrested 24th time:

102 Negro marchers jailed

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — "Keep them coming," said the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy from his jail cell. He and 101 followers were arrested Friday for demonstrating in support of striking Negro nonprofessional hospital workers.

They were arrested on the picket lines and charged with violating an injunction limiting pickets to 10 at the South Carolina Medical College Hospital and the Charleston County Hospital. It was the 24th arrest at civil rights demonstrations for Abernathy, who succeeded the assassinated Martin Luther King Jr. as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"You have your duty to enforce the law," Abernathy told the arresting officer, Charleston Police Chief John Conroy. "I have my duty to disobey unjust laws."

Abernathy and 50 followers were arrested Friday afternoon. Another 51 were arrested Friday night after being told at a rally that

Abernathy had relayed to an aide, "Just keep them coming."

Those arrested were kept in jail overnight. More than 100 others have been arrested at various times during the strike for violating the injunction and were released under $500 bond.

Police protection in Charleston was buttressed by the presence of 500 National Guardsmen. Not all were in evidence, but more than 200 guardsmen, many carrying bayonets on their rifles, had sealed off the two hospitals.

The more than 400 strikers, most of them women who do housekeeping chores in the hospitals, struck a month ago. They want recognition of their union, Local 1199B of the Hospital and Nursing Home Workers, AFL-CIO, and an unspecified pay raise over their scale of $1.30 to $2.05 an hour.

Hospital officials, backed by Gov. Robert E. McNair, contend they are unable to bargain with the union because their budgets are set by annual legislative appropriation.

Just before the arrests Friday, trustees of the Medical College Hospital issued a statement saying: "Should the union withdraw, we stand ready to re-employ striking workers to fill existing vacancies, except for those dismissed for cause or convicted of law violation."

The union rejected it.

Shortly before the trustees made their offer about 2,500 Negroes, led by Abernathy, marched on the hospitals.

Nixon kin Missing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Police said President Nixon's uncle, Ezra Milhous, 82, wandered away from a bus station Friday and could not be located immediately.

Sgt. Joe Harrington confirmed the half-blind man, who used a cane, was the President's uncle.

Harrington said Milhous' wife, Ruth, said her husband left her side and failed to return.

Harrington said Milhous, who lives in Penryn Valley near Roseville had disappeared before.

170 Rembrandts:

Several paintings challenged

LONDON (AP) — A Dutch expert on Rembrandt has challenged the authenticity of about 170 paintings generally believed to be those of the Dutch master, the Times of London said today.

In an advance review of a book to be published next month, the Times reported that Prof. Horst Gerson of Holland's Groningen University has cast doubt on certain paintings in American, British, French, Russian and Dutch collections.

Gerson's opinions, the Times added, "are likely to cause consternation among owners of Rembrandts, since they could seriously undermine the value of a painting or a gallery's prestige."

The book is a revision of "Rembrandt: The Complete Edition of the Paintings," written in 1935 by Dutch expert Abraham Bredius.

Gerson, the Times said, is a professor of art history who has been studying the 17th century Dutch artist for 30 years and is considered a scholar of world stature, but his views "can be expected to provoke bitter argument among art historians."

Among the paintings questioned in the revised volume are works owned by the National Gallery in Washington, the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, the Louvre in Paris, the Hermitage in Leningrad, the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam and Queen Elizabeth II.

18 killed In crash

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Eighteen crewmen on a U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane were killed when the plane crashed shortly after taking off Friday from a base in northeast Thailand.

The plane, an EC121, is similar to the one shot down by North Korea April 15 but a spokesman stressed its mission was not similar to that of the craft downed in the Sea of Japan.

The cause of the crash was not determined. The names of the crewmen were withheld until their families could be notified.

Rocket launched

The first liquid-fuel rocket was launched in 1926 by Robert Goddard.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NEW ENGLAND minister came upon a group of city lads intently regarding a pup of most uncertain pedigree. They explained they were swapping lies, and that the teller of the biggest whopper would be awarded the dog.

"What a dreadful game," disapproved the minister. "When I was a boy, nothing in the world could have persuaded me to tell a falsehood."

"That's the end of the game," announced the leader of the group. "The minister gets the dog!"

A young man, after standing in line for a full hour, gained admittance to a hit movie and was just about to slide gratefully into one of a pair of empty seats when a brash, busty woman shoved him out of the way and commandeered the seats for herself and her meek little husband. The husband murmured apologetically, "I'm sorry we seemed to beat you to these seats, young man." The young man answered loudly, "That's quite all right, sir. I just hope you and your grandmother enjoy the picture!"

Good old Colonel Duffy reminds you that if you want to know what's behind the headlines, you have only to ask any wife. She'll assure you it's her husband—especially at the breakfast table. The Colonel also reflects that, considering the purchasing power of the dollar these days, it's a good thing money doesn't grow on trees. It would only cheapen the neighborhood.

TEEN DATE-LINE

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Ele and Walt: My brother has put pictures up on his wall from nudist magazines. The men and women in these pictures are 100 per cent naked and not trying to hide it. My mother and father know about these pictures but they don't say anything. I'm not saying he should take them down, but don't you think he ought to have to keep his door closed when I have my girlfriends over to spend the afternoon or night? — Younger But Wiser Sister.

Dear Sister: We agree that it would be wise if brother's gallery were somewhat restricted. Some girls would look, have their curiosity satisfied and say, "So what?" Others would get uptight and report the matter at home to furious parents, unleashing a whole miserable inter-family squabble.

Instead of pouting, snarling or turning mute, ask your brother if he could either rearrange the pics so they weren't visible from the hall or make it a point to shut the door when there were female guests in the house. The less sound and fury, the more chance he'll honor your request. — Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele: I've dated Monty for six months and my parents are very fond of him. He's sort of adopted by them because there are no boys in our family. They even told him to come over if he had trouble, even if I wasn't home.

Last night he came over at 2 a.m. He'd had a really bad fight with his dad and wanted to stay overnight. My dad talked with him, then phoned his house and told them he was staying over. This morning my father drove him home and helped him work things out with his parents.

I'm proud my parents are so good to Monty and I'm glad he feels so much at home here, but I'm wondering if that will make him end up feeling like a brother to me? Last night he didn't even kiss me once. He often spends more time talking with my parents than with me. Even on our dates, he talks about them. Do you think this will push us apart? — Grace.

Dear Grace: It's obviously getting to you, playing second fiddle to mom and dad. If you consider it rivalry, yes, it will push you apart, but, if you realize that they fill a need you can't, you can put things in perspective.

Just tell the boy, "I don't want us to stop growing together. So let's balance the home time with some time we're just by ourselves. The zoo, a museum or just walking, it doesn't matter what we do, just so we can talk alone together."

If he proceeds to praise your parents on outings, bear with it. Then ask him what his future plans are and get him looking beyond the moment. Or would you rather end things right now? — Ele.

Breaking up with a steady can be a difficult situation for anyone. Ele and Walt Dulaney tell a few things not to do in their pamphlet, "How to End a Steady Relationship." For a copy send a dime and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Teen-age Date-Line, in care of The Press.

Shows to watch

"A Look on the Light Side" — (SPECIAL): 7:30 p.m. Ch. 4 — Bill Dana (Jose Jimenez) returns for a second travel special. This time he takes a look at the way many Americans enjoy themselves outdoors. Along the way the music of the New York Rock 'N' Roll ensemble and the Jefferson Airplane group are heard. Highlights include stops at Yellowstone Park for a snowmobile roundup, Kansas for a pancake-eating contest, Michigan for an ice boat race and a "bed race" by students in Alabama.

"The Pad" — (CHOICE VIEWING): 9 p.m. Ch. 4 — A 1966 Universal comedy-drama being repeated. Brian Bedford, Julie Sommars and James Farentino are featured. Bedford is a shy bachelor who meets a seemingly shy girl at a Mozart concert. He invites her to dinner, but then doesn't know what to do. His "swinging" buddy supplies some answers. There's a twist ending to this comedy.

Jackie Gleason Show: 7:30 p.m. Ch. 2 — A repeat with George Burns, Jack Carter, Martha Raye and Mel Torme as guests. George and Jackie swap Miami Beach experiences in an opening sequence. Martha sings "Pennies From Heaven." Jackie and Carter talk about the exercise craze. In a cute finale, everybody gathers in rocking chairs to sing special lyrics to "Old Rockin' Chair's Got Me."

Viera extradition date Hoped for during June

DETROIT (AP)—An assistant Wayne County prosecutor said Friday it's hoped to extradite 20-year-old Rafael Viera from New York to Detroit in June to stand trial in the shooting death of a Detroit policeman last March 29.

Viera, a member of the black separatist Republic of New Africa, refused to be extradited.

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Danny Goans drove his car into a Great Falls service station in February, and the left front wheel fell off.

He decided he'd better trade cars. Friday he drove into the service station with his new vehicle. This time the right front wheel fell off.

DEAR ABBY:

Three wagging tongues Mean triple troubles

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm the kind of wife who tells her husband everything. And I am married to the kind of son who tells his mother everything. Well, his mother has a big mouth, and she's the kind of woman who tells everybody everything, so now everyone in town knows all my personal business. How do you suggest I go about getting Friend Husband to keep his trap shut? Or maybe I should tell his mother to keep hers shut. No Privacy.

DEAR NO: I have a better idea. Why not simplify things and keep yours shut?

DEAR ABBY: I have it on very good authority that up until about 50 years ago it was the custom for Eskimo women to leave their villages just before their babies were due, go off by themselves, and give birth all alone.

This seems to be a very barbaric practice, and I can't figure out the reason for it. I know it is true because someone who has lived above the Arctic Circle for more than 50 years told me this himself.

What are the facts? Curious.

DEAR CURIOUS: The facts (as obtained for me from Mr. Robert B. Atwood, my esteemed friend and editor and publisher of the Anchorage Daily Times) are:

"No one has any proof that such a custom ever existed."

Father John P. Fox, a Catholic priest, who has spent 50 years in the Arctic Circle stated:

"Once, 43 years ago I knew a young Eskimo woman who left her village to have her child alone. The reason. She was 19, unmarried and didn't want anyone to know of her disgrace. She had been running around with a native trader who had three wives. The baby apparently died at birth or shortly after, and was hidden somewhere out on the tundra by the young mother. That is the only such case I have ever heard of."

"That so-called 'custom' is in a class with the 'wife-swapping' stories one hears about the Eskimos, and the practice of 'loaning' one's wife to a guest. An occasional drunken native may have used his friend's wife, but that would hardly make it a custom."

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine has owed me $100 for a very long time. I have had no success in collecting even a part of it, so I decided to get even with him. I borrowed his library card and checked out an arm load of magazines, from which I tore all the articles I wanted.

On one of my visits to the library, I met a young librarian for whom I felt very hard. He was most attentive at first, and I know he was about to ask me out when he learned of my vandalism. Since then he has been very cold and unfriendly. Should I explain to him the circumstances, or what? Needs Advice.

DEAR NEEDS: What could you "explain"? Your childish retaliation trick? I doubt if the young librarian would feel that your vandalism was justified. Putting another further into debt is a strange way of collecting what is owed you.

DEAR ABBY: I received a telephone call the other evening. A woman with a pleasant voice asked for me by name, so of course I let her talk. She said she couldn't tell me who she was, but she thought I should know that my husband was stepping out with a woman he works with.

It would have really upset me terribly except that I'm not married!

Continue to tell your readers to pay no attention to nuts who make anonymous phone calls. Gwen.

DR. BROTHERS:

Professionals fill holes Around the generation gap

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Although almost everyone has a different view as to the precise cause of the generation gap, few would deny that there is considerable hostility and misunderstanding between the generations. You might like to compare your views on some of the problems with opinions from some experts.

1. Although misunderstanding between young and old seems to be a worldwide problem, there is actually less hostility between generations in the United States than in other countries. TRUE—FALSE—.

2. The breach between young and old is not so great in families where parents have not been to college. TRUE—FALSE—.

3. Fear is the basis for much of the hostility between the older generation and the youth of today. TRUE—FALSE—.

4. The most important conflict the adolescent experiences is with his own parents. TRUE—FALSE—.

5. One of the reasons so many middle-aged men dislike the fad of long hair for boys is because they feel it is effeminate. TRUE — FALSE.

6. This generation gap is no different than every other generation gap that has existed in the past. TRUE—FALSE—.

7. The run-away teenager may come from a home where he feels stifled and over-protected. TRUE — FALSE—.

ANSWERS

1. FALSE. If anything, there is an even greater hostility in the United States than in other countries.

2. One of the reasons may be that we are a youth-oriented nation, a nation that idolizes youth. Everybody wants to be young, and people who are determined to stay young at all costs will probably envy and resent those who actually are young.

3. FALSE. According to anthropologist, Margaret Mead, it is those parents who have never been to college but who are sending, or hope to send, their children to college, who are most angry at what is going on at university campuses. This seems to rob them of the hope that there is a "safe and socially approved road to a kind of life they wanted, but missed."

4. TRUE. Edgar Friedenberg, author of "The Vanishing Adolescent," feels that a fear of disorder and loss of control, fear of aging and envy of the life not yet squandered, lie at the root of much adult hostility to adolescence.

4. FALSE. The real conflict is within the adolescent himself, between the pull to be like his parents in outlook, in moral philosophy, in profession; and the urge to rebel, to strike out on his own and be different. Though the parents may represent the world to him, the struggle is really internal, within the boy or girl himself.

5. TRUE. Why does long hair arouse such wrath? Sociologist Edgar Friedenberg points out that adolescent boys often reawaken conflicts in adults. They may arouse latent homosexual feelings directly, and also indirectly, by rekindling "smoldering emotional processes in which homosexuality is one—though often a comparatively unimportant—symptom."

6. FALSE. Dr. Margaret Mead thinks that today we have a deep, new, world wide and unprecedented generation gap in the minds of both the young and old. She feels that the sooner we all recognize this, the sooner we will be able to re-establish communication.

7. TRUE. Every adolescent needs to free himself from too close a family bond. When parents feel threatened by the loss of their child as he becomes a young adult, the youth, fearing his over-attachment or his conflicting attachment, may make a sudden, abrupt break that can cause hurt feelings and pain to parents.

YOUR HEALTH:

Drug regains status In mental health area

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

The use of drugs for those who are already suffering from incapacitating mental diseases has made many persons, completely able to take their place in modern society.

Lithium is a metallic element that first came into special prominence about twenty-five years ago for the treatment of severe mental disturbances. At that time there was a considerable amount of enthusiasm for lithium for the treatment of diabetes, gout, and even epilepsy. As frequently happens, over-enthusiasm can lead to early discard of a valuable substance. So it was with lithium. For many years this substance was discarded and only recently again became the basis for study.

During the past few years lithium has been reported to be effective in the treatment and in the prevention of certain types of behavior disorders. The New England Journal of Medicine recently reviewed an intensive study to explain why lithium seemed to be effective in neurological problems. Whether or not this element eventually turns out to be effective in many instances, demands intensive study. That which is most exciting to physicians is that scientists leave no stone unturned to bring us more and more hope that mental disorders may yet be completely prevented through chemistry.

When the voice box is removed from a patient with cancer of the larynx there is an immediate inability to speak. These courageous people have learned a technique of speaking by swallowing air and soon can make themselves completely understood.

Many devices have been created to help these people to speak and to again work and produce in any occupation. Now a new miniature artificial larynx has been created at the Stanford University School of Medicine. There, Dr. Richard L. Goode has created this device which seems to be better than the voice produced by any other methods now in use. Dr. Goode says, "within a week of being fitted with this experimental larynx, the patient has a loud voice, and is easily understood on the telephone."

This instrument is controlled by a pocket switch and holds great promise that people without a larynx may yet be totally unhampered in any field of endeavor.

Speaking of your health: Keep an accurate health record of each child. Memories cannot be depended on. Was it measles or chickenpox your fourth child had?

here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

CANDY: How could a film with Richard Burton, Marlon Brando, Charles Coburn and Walter Matthau be all bad? Somehow "Candy" manages to be. In an utterly tasteless and insensitive treatment of Terry Southern's masterful satire, the producers have created a film as boring as it is vulgar. The waste is unforgivable. —Algier's Drive-in

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. —Scio Drive-in

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCullers' story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. —State-Wayne

CAMELOT: The lavish film fantasia of the knights and ladies of this best loved of all storybook kingdoms. Spectacular scenes, sumptuous costuming and a sensationally sing-alongable score — what could be bad? —Martha Washington

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape." Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. (M) — Fox Village, Quo Vadis

WHO'S AFRAID OF VIRGINIA WOOLF? The Burton's are at their magnificent best in this brutal psychodrama about a middle-aged couple inextricably bound in delusion and self-destruction. Under Mike Nichols' sure direction, the piece loses little in its transition from the stage, and even those who saw the play will find the film a new and exciting experience. —Willow Drive-in

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing bathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen

HELL IN THE PACIFIC: Lee Marvin and Toshio Mifune star as an American marine and a Japanese officer marooned on the same desert island to fight a microcosmic version of WWII. The producers have admirably resisted fairstyle transformations, but they have also foregone any other significant character development. Two fine actors are frozen in a tableau of visual antagonism — a good still, but hardly a full-length motion picture. —Michigan

THE PRODUCERS: Small-time producer Zero Mostel contrives to make a killing by collecting in advance for a play so dreadful that it will have to close after one performance. Naturally, the play — a musical fantasy about Adolph Hitler — is greeted as a satirical smash. We wish we could say the same for film, but this reviewer, at least, found it just a bit hard to laugh. —Campus

THE SUBJECT WAS ROSES: Patricia Neal won an Academy Award nomination for her role in this story of a young man who returns from the war and is able to see his parents' tottering marriage in proper perspective for the first time. Based on Frank Gilroy's Pulitzer-Prize-winning play, the movie does justice to the author's incisive family portrait. —Campus

THE NIGHT THEY RAIDED MINSKY'S: A nostalgic tribute to the early days of burlesque, no less engaging for the fact that it shows the seamy, as well as the glittery, side of the theater of the 20's. Combining documentary film clip, a slapstick plot, and an excellent score, "Minsky's" may well be the musical success of the year. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and sophisticated to claim a 'G' rating—State

PLAY DIRTY: War is hell, right? and the squadron of junkies, homosexuals and thieves that make up this allied mission are demonic enough to make Rommel's rats look almost good by comparison. With so much dirtiness around, it's only natural that the picture would come out smelling a bit, too. —Wayside

IRMA LA DOUCE: Shirley MacLaine and Jack Lemmon star in this light-hearted classic about a "Prostitute with a heart of gold." Despite the thickish subject matter, there's no reason why it shouldn't be a fun family evening. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media.

PRUDENCE AND THE PILL: Blithe little romantic farce all about the new morality spawned by the introduction of The Pill into American society. A potentially risqué subject, the title might well be descriptive of the producers' attack; the film is solidly in the Doris Day school of mostly bluff. —Algier's Drive-in

WRECKING CREW: Dean Martin dredges up agent Matt Helm for a second outing, this time in pursuit of a billion-dollar shipment of hi-jacked gold. Dean sings spoofs and sexes it up a bit with Elke Summer, Nancy Kwan and Tina Louise to turn out a film remarkable only for the fact that it doesn't even pretend to be anything more than a rerun of earlier Dino efforts. —Wayne Drive-in

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés — the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and one-dimensional "star" Steve McQueen — and made them both work. (M) — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON: One of Walt Disney's most spectacular adventure stories, the film recreates the classic tale of a family shipwrecked for many years on a desert island. Well up to highest Disney standards. (G) — Milan

ANGEL IN MY POCKET: Andy Griffith plays his guileless homespun self in this tale of a newly-ordained minister whose first post lands him in the middle of a town feud which threatens to bring down the church. It's a well-worn story, but it's the few films left for family funny and human and one of consumption. (G) — University Drive-in

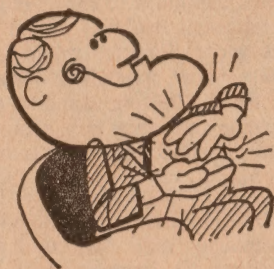

The knights and ladies of King Arthur's realm live again in the delightful musical fantasy, "Camelot," now playing at the Martha Washington Theater.

'Lawmaker, not lawbreaker'

Pickets blast legislator

LANSING (AP) — The closed and locked Lansing office of U.S. Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., was picketed Friday by leaders of a recall group, with a local Democratic official heading the parade. The 40 some demonstrators left a sign on the office door: "Get your tickets fixed here." Other signs read "Charlie Come Home," "Are you afraid of an open hearing Mr. Chamberlain?" and "We want our man in Washington to be a Lawmaker, not a Lawbreaker." Ingham County Democratic Chairman James Harrison was in the fore of the group picketing the Lansing post office, where Chamberlain has a second floor office. The signs referred to Chamberlain's brush with police at Washington, D.C. Published reports said his car hit a policeman, then left the scene only to be stopped by the officer and citizens. Chamberlain later was cleared at a closed hearing conducted by the district corporation counsel. Chamberlain was in Washington Friday. Mrs. Beulah Robinson, a secretary and the lone person in the office, had been prewarned of the demonstration. She left for lunch before the pickets arrived, shortly after noon, and did not return until after they left. Watching from the sidelines but not marching was Robert Rothbard, 23-year-old Michigan State University graduate student from Washington, D.C. Rothbard started the recall drive. He was warned to quit his leadership after it was discovered he worked in the State Office of Planning and Coordination—which comes under Gov. William Milliken. Rothbard was told he should "cease all activities in your recall campaign" because such political action was against State Civil Service regulations and possibly the Hatch Act. Rothbard said he was disappointed that several hundred people didn't show up. Meanwhile, he said he had turned leadership of the campaign over to James McGrath, an MSU graduate student originally from Philadelphia. "I believe I can still attend political rallies and raise my voice on issues and candidates," Rothbard said. "That's what I'm doing here."

Others in the peaceful picket line included MSU students

Plan to overcome School woes outlined

DETROIT (AP) — Calling the state's revenue system "wholly inadequate," to pay for public services, Michigan's chief school administrator Friday outlined a four-point program for overcoming school money problems.

Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, proposed that: — Local voters work to reverse the trend to defeated millage elections.

— Income and corporation taxes, which measure ability to pay, be increased.

— The state government accept "much greater responsibility—perhaps complete responsibility—for financing education."

— The federal government reassess priorities and adopt a "share - the - revenue program, so that the problems of education, health, pollution, urban decay and social services can be met."

Polley made his comments in a speech prepared for delivery at the Central States Area Conference of the National Association of State Boards of Education.

Polley also cited Michigan's experience with collective negotiations between teachers and school boards since 1965.

"Collective bargaining apparently is here to stay in the public sector," he said. "The issue is: How can negotiations be used to serve the educational and public interests in the state?"

Polley suggested that the answer—"not a simple one"—encompasses several elements, including: "A sound and realistic statute that establishes the time periods for negotiations, for mediation and for factfinding... and the proper use of arbitration and judicial procedures in some cases."

Wayne's Schools to Set tax

Millage is now Second highest

WAYNE — The millage request of the Wayne Community School District for the coming year is expected to be announced Monday afternoon.

There will be 17 mills expiring this year out of a total millage of 44.6, second highest in the state.

Nankin Mills has had the highest millage in Michigan. There is a proposal to divide the Nankin Mills district equally between Wayne and Livonia, which would make Wayne's millage highest.

The amount to be requested is expected to be announced at a press conference by Superintendent Harry Howard. It will be discussed at the school board meeting Monday evening.

The city of Westland is included in the Wayne School District.

Aircraft near miss Study to be revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government policy of granting immunity to pilots who report near misses with other aircraft has increased the number of such reports five times.

This reportedly is the finding of a study by the Federal Aviation Administration expected to be released in the next two or three weeks.

The study, according to an FAA source, will show about 2,500 near misses were reported last year over the United States. This compares with about 500 each of several previous years when any pilot reporting involvement in a near miss faced the possibility of prosecution.

"These do not actually mean near midair collisions," said the source of the current study. "After investigation less than half turned out to have any degree of hazard."

A 12-month study by the Flight Safety Foundation in 1961-62, turned up 2,577 near misses. During that study the foundation encouraged anonymous reports of near misses but there was no immunity.

Hotel Ritz's glory lingers In new cookbook recipes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Of the Associated Press

It was a sad day for American cuisine when the old New York Ritz-Carlton hotel closed its doors. For that marked the day the late Louis Diat, its famous executive chef, retired.

Through the Ritz restaurant, his cookbooks and his generous spirit, Louis had made a fabulous contribution to our cooking scene.

Like many other food writers, I would occasionally visit Louis in the vast, fascinating, underground kitchens of the old Ritz to check the making of a French dish.

Because the Boston Ritz-Carlton is world-famous for its soups, we've chosen this Potage St. Germain from Helen's latest cookbook for your approval.

RITZ-CARLTON POTAGE ST. GERMAIN

5 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, sliced thin
1 medium carrot, sliced thin
1 rib celery, sliced thin
7 cups chicken broth (home made or canned)
2 1/4 cups fresh peas (buy 2 1/4 pounds)
Few sprigs fresh chervil or 1/2 teaspoon dried crushed chervil
2 egg yolks
1 cup heavy cream
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup Fried Croutons—see recipe below

In a large saucepot, melt two tablespoons of the butter. Add onion, carrot and celery and cook gently until vegetables are softened but not brown.

Add broth and bring to a boil; add peas and chervil and cook gently until peas are very soft—about 35 minutes. Put through a food mill.

In a small bowl, whisk egg yolks slightly; add cream and whisk to combine.

Return soup mixture to saucepot and bring to a boil; then reduce heat to very low so boiling recedes. Gradually whisk in yolk-cream mixture; stir in remaining three tablespoons butter. Add salt and pepper—amount of salt needed will depend on seasoning in broth. Heat but do not let boil after yolk-cream mixture is added. Serve at once sprinkled with Fried Croutons.

If you like, after putting the soup mixture through the food mill, it may be kept hot in a double-boiler until serving time and the yolk-cream mixture and remaining butter may be whipped in and heated—but not boiled—before serving.

Makes about two quarts—eight servings.

Barich wedding Held in Maryland

Last week in Maryland, Miss Barbara Gail Barich, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dewey Barich, of 714 Cambridge St., became the bride of Thomas C. Panion, of Baltimore.

The Saturday, April 12, afternoon ceremony was held at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church.

The bride's gown was cage-style silk organza over satin, with Alencon lace appliques and a detachable chapel train. Her bouquet contained white orchids with a scattering of small pink roses.

Miss Wendy Barich, the bride's sister, was maid of honor in the ceremony. She wore a sleeveless, soft pink floor length dress, styled with an empire waist and a wedding band neckline.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sue Thevenet of Washington, D.C., and Miss Patti Panion of Baltimore, who wore lime green empire style dresses.

All attendants carried wicker baskets with assorted spring flowers.

Joseph Brown of Baltimore was best man in the ceremony; ushers were Richard Reese and William McDonald, both of Baltimore.

The bride, who graduated from Roosevelt High School, attended George Washington University in Washington, D.C. She is now employed by the Ashland Oil Co. in Baltimore.

The groom is attending Western Maryland College after serving four years in the Marine Corps.

The newlyweds will live in Baltimore.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Handy hint for boiling hams

DEAR HELOISE: For those who boil half or whole hams (specially picnics)... If you add a half-cup of sugar in that boiling water, it will make it ever so good.

Don't know why, but my grandmother taught me this. Mrs. T. H. L.

Well, Heaven help a duck. I tried a small picnic ham this way. Took most of the salty taste out too.

I boiled it for two hours, then baked it a bit while still hot. Just enough to brown it.

I took the sugar and ham flavored water and boiled it down to make the best dardum gravy you ever shook a stick at! It was sorta sweet and sour. I only added one tablespoon of vinegar before I boiled the water down.

Luscious and scrumptious. Sure glad someone follows their grandmother's hand-me-down recipes.

Guess they are the best after all. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: My wonderful grandmother has been a great help to all of her twenty-four grandchildren.

For instance, my son always loved to get hold of my wallet and look at the pictures.

As I had credit cards, license, etc. in there that could get damaged or misplaced, she gave him a little wallet of his own. She filled it with pictures of animals and cars that she had clipped out of the newspaper.

Now he just sits there for hours—looking over his treasure and never bothers my wallet anymore. Mary Anne

DEAR HELOISE: The girl in the wig shop said to just swish my human hair wiglet under cold water to clear it of spray. Then she said when I want to dye it, just swish it in hair coloring.

What a mess I got into! I finally buried it in the yard under the geraniums. "Little Ole Wig Fixer"

P.S. Before I mess around with my next "crown of beauty" I'll ask your advice.

DEAR HELOISE: I went into a furniture store to buy a record cabinet and was disappointed as they did not have one in stock.

I asked the owner of the store where he stored his records at home. He said, "In a magazine rack!"

I couldn't wait to get home as I already had a magazine rack.

Now I have a place to store records and like it very much.

It takes up little space and was very inexpensive. Mrs. W. Steger

DEAR HELOISE: I have found that a very handy addition to my cosmetic bag is a small pencil sharpener. (The ones that are about an inch in diameter and can be bought in any dime store.)

I use an eyebrow pencil and it wears down or breaks quite often. My sharpener is always "Johnny on the Spot."

Carolyn Merrill

DEAR HELOISE: And this one is for all of you bachelors too.

Sometimes we have extra plastic shower curtain hooks lying around (and if not, go buy some or ask your neighbor to split a package with you—this way it only costs half as much).

I put some on the inside of my shower curtain between the folds and they make wonderful hooks to dry underwear and hose.

Since the curtain is usually pulled, the drying garments don't show. If you have a lot of garments on weekends, put one hook between each fold and keep the entire curtain closed. Guests will think you are a neat housekeeper.

'Mod' Vietnamese girl arrives

Miniskirts, bell bottoms move in on traditional costume

SAIGON (AP) — The age of the "mod" girl has arrived in Saigon. She likes brightly colored miniskirts, low-cut blouses and bellbottom slacks. The mod girl is a teen-ager who goes to school by day in her traditional flowing white silk ao dai, then switches to her miniskirt and sets off downtown. Sometimes she rides a Japanese motorbike decorated with psychedelic decals.

In addition to miniskirt and blouse, the mod teen-ager likes matching leather shoes, orange purse, necklaces, bracelets and rings. Her black hair is worn long with bangs that hang down to her eyes.

The lure for the mods—a Western phenomenon that hit Saigon last year—is a 10-square block area of arcades, food stalls, ice cream shops, restaurants, cafes and movie theaters. In this area the bar girl flourished until the Viet Cong's Tet offensive in February 1968. The bars were closed. Months later they reopened but they have never recovered.

For one thing, U.S. troops who kept the bars roaring have been withdrawn to the suburbs, and there are strict regulations governing U.S. currency.

Night clubs and cabarets now cater to a largely Vietnamese clientele. Many bars are being converted to more profitable snack shops and cafes. One of Saigon's seedier dives has been transformed into the "Peace Restaurant," a mod hang-out.

A dozen new boutiques have opened in the downtown area, offering the latest French miniskirts and dresses, lingerie, and colorful Japanese silks in psychedelic patterns.

The traditional Vietnamese dress, the long, flowing ao dai with pantaloons, hasn't been standing still either. Already imitative tailors have moved with a "mini ao dai" which adds lace fringe to the pantaloons, and shortens the flowing robe to just below the knee. This style is disappearing—as are the miniskirts—by the elders.

Calling All Home Makers

By BOB SMITH
LET'S TALK ABOUT "COLOR SCHEMES"

Popular colors in upholstered furniture, draperies and floor coverings change from time to time, just the same as they do in women's fashions.

You might be interested in knowing that a recent nation-wide survey at the furniture mart in Chicago shows that greens are the #1 best seller now in upholstered furniture, followed by golds, reds, browns and blues.

But the best rule in selecting the "basic" color for your living room, or any room in your home, is to start with a color YOU like best.

Some like monotonous, or different tones of the same color used throughout a room. Others like contrasting or harmonizing colors. Either plan, with careful study, can be equally effective.

But you must start someplace. In a living room it is best to start either with your floor covering or your sofa or sectional, and work out your color scheme from there. You can also select your wall colors first and then pick the rest of your furniture and furnishings to harmonize with your walls.

Some decorators prefer neutral colors for sofas or sectionals which enable them to use a great deal of color in chairs and accessories. Please feel free to let us help you with any of your color selections.

Tigers lose home run battle

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers know only too well now that the Boston Red Sox were not kidding when they blew into town loaded with press releases telling of their home run power.

Boston's offensive power exploded in a back-to-back explosion Friday night as they jumped on Tiger lefthander

Mickey Lolich for a pair of homers that put them out in front to stay in a 5-4 decision over the Tigers.

The blasts of Billy Conigliaro (his fourth) and Mike Andrews (his third) wiped out a 2-0 lead as Boston surged into a 3-2 lead on the basis of a disputed walk to Boston starting (and winning) pitcher Jim Lonborg.

Rico Petrocelli, the American League's leading hitter at the moment, added his sixth roundtripper in the seventh to complete the Red Sox home run hitting for the night before 31,461 fans.

Lonborg, making his first start since a sore shoulder hit him on opening day, had home run troubles of his own before his teammates let loose the barrage on Lolich. Jim Northrup slammed a solo homer to lead off the Tiger second and Mickey Stanley did likewise into the third to send the Tigers into a short-lived 2-0 lead. It was the second homer of the season for each.

Lonborg survived the early shelling, although the Red Sox bulpen was a busy place in the third inning as the Tigers came within a hit of knocking him out. But the six-foot five-inch righthander hung on until the Red Sox got their big guns in position.

The two-out walk to Longborg in Boston's fifth opened the door for the Red Sox, who had been held scoreless. Conigliaro blasted a Lolich offering into the left centerfield stands and Andrews quickly followed suit as the Red Sox took a lead they never yielded.

"Lolich was philosophical about the Lonborg walk. 'I think that two of those pitches that were called balls were right down the pipe but that is the way it goes,' he said in the Tiger dressing room. 'I like to help my fellow pitchers out once in a while,' Lolich added with a grin.

Lolich managed a smile when a newsmen, seeking to say some kind words about his pitching performance, said, "You had good stuff, Mickey ... the ball was moving real well ..."

"You mean moving real well coming in or when it was headed out," asked Lolich with a wry grin.

The loss dropped the Tigers into fourth place in their American League division one game behind Boston and three behind trail-blazing Baltimore.

Steve Rhodin crosses the plate with Ypsilanti High's first run following a hit by Pat Kelly. Kelly smashed a liner off the pitcher's glove in this third inning action.

Peck hits 6th triple:

Huron skein ends In twin bill split

DETROIT — Jeff Peck, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' most prolific triple hitter, was at it again for a while yesterday afternoon.

The Eastern Michigan third baseman unloaded his sixth of the season as part of a personal three-hit, three-RBI barrage that paced the Hurons to a 12-7 victory over the University of Detroit in the opener of a doubleheader.

The Hurons' six-game winning streak came to an abrupt halt in the nightcap, however, as the Titans collected four unearned runs in the second inning and went on to defeat Coach Ron Oestrike's team, 6-2.

The frustrating second game saw Eastern strand 10 batters in seven innings and Jerry Kramer lose despite a three-hitter for the five innings he pitched.

But in the opener, the Eastern bats boomed away for 11 hits, with Peck complementing his triple with a single and a double.

Eastern, which came away from the doubleheader with a 12-5 slate, met Michigan State this afternoon at the Hurons' new park on Huron River Drive.

Hurons' linksters Win tournament

ALMA — Jim St. Germain fired a two-over-par 74 here yesterday to lead the Eastern Michigan golfers to the team championship in the Alma Invitational tournament.

St. Germain, medalist in the field of golfers from 16 colleges, was one under going out but came in three over on the par 72 Pine River Country Club layout. Frank Reaume was second in the field with a 76.

Eastern had a four-man total of 312 to Aquinas' 314 and Central Michigan's 317. Detroit College was fourth with a 318. Defending champion Michigan didn't participate because of a conflict with final examinations.

Tigers edged 2-1; Big Reds lose

DEARBORN — Belleville dropped a 2-1 decision to visiting Dearborn Edsel Ford in a non-league contest and evened its early season record at one win and one loss.

Dearborn scored a single run in the first inning without benefit of a hit as two errors allowed a run to score after two were out. Belleville tied the score in the third on Gary Gentle's single, stolen base and Dick Wenzel's single.

A walk, sacrifice and single produced the winning run for Dearborn in the last inning.

a 22-hit slug fest with Chelsea, dropping a 14-9 contest here last night.

Each team pounded out 11 hits and capitalized on walks to bring about the high scoring game. Milan had a big six-run first inning, but Chelsea wrapped the game up with an eight-run outburst in the third.

Sophomore left fielder Dennis Williams raised his batting average from .583 to .647 with a 4-for-5 performance including two triples and double. Williams is now 11 for 17 and his 11 hits include just three singles.

Two tied For lead In Classic

DALLAS (AP) — Add a new occupation for Bruce Devlin. He already holds a card as a master plumber. And he's a proven golfer. Now, perhaps he's gaining stature as a prophet.

"I thought that if I two-putt that last hole, I'm the tourney leader," Devlin said after an early finish with a 66 in Friday's second round of the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

That gave him a 137 and, as it turned out, made him a pretty good forecaster.

Several hours later lean Bert Greene sailed through the blustery winds with a 71 and steady Frank Beard came home with a 67, each for a 36-hole total of 137 and a share of the top spot with Devlin.

Two strokes back at 139 after two trips over the rugged, 7,086-yard, par 70 Preston Trail Golf Club course are lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand, who had a second-round 70, 49-year-old PGA champion Julius Boros, 72; Australian Bruce Crampton, 70; and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, also 70.

"I don't think anybody is going to shoot a hot round in the afternoon, Devlin said, and, with a couple of exceptions, such as Beard, he was right.

Lions' three late rallies Doom Hornets to defeat

Saline's third baseman, Richard Goltz throws out a South Lyon baserunner in yesterday's action. Goltz is a highly touted performer with a good arm and mobility.

—Press Photo

SALINE — For the second time in as many days, a seventh-inning rally fell short for Saline. Yesterday the Hornets came up on the short end of a 7-4 decision with South Lyon.

After trailing 4-0, Saline fought back with three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning. The punch was supplied by a two run homer off the bat of second baseman Bob Charles.

Chuck Karn also had a home run for a single tally in the seventh, but it wasn't enough for the Hornets to climb out of the Southeastern Conference basement. They have an 0-3 mark in league play — the losses coming by a total of only five runs.

The Hornets had two home runs, but managed only three other safeties for the contest while the Lions banged out 13 hits.

Saline will try again for the breaks it needs to get that first conference win Tuesday at Dexter. Game time is 4 p.m.

Ypsilanti High showed some fine team balance in methodically pounding out a 4-0 decision over Wayne Memorial at Recreation Park yesterday. It was the second straight shutout for the undefeated Braves who have now won eight games this season.

Sophomore Steve Rhodin had all of the fans on the edge of their seats as he retired the first 12 men he faced, but he tired in the sixth inning. He gave way to John Wilson with the bases loaded and two out in the sixth.

Wilson retired the last four men in order including catcher Doug Truskowski on a grounder to Lance Allward in the sixth. The Zebras managed only three hits, two in the sixth, but Rhodin erased one of them with a sharp pick-off move to first base.

Behind Rhodin, the Braves were nearly flawless, committing only one error — and that coming after a great stop by Greg Wike in the hole at short.

Wike and third baseman Allward continually made the good plays, picking up the tricky bounces on the infield. At the same time, centerfielder Jim Horton roamed all around the outfield to pull in some of the fly balls in that direction.

Offensively the Braves were in control most of the way. They got a hit in every inning but the first and had at least one runner in every frame. Their seven hits were distributed among seven different batters.

Rhodin scored the first run.

He walked in the third, went to second on a balk, moved to third on a fielder's choice and scored on Pat Kelley's smash off of the pitcher's glove.

Kelley advanced on a fielder's choice and scored when Bob Rockwell was safe on an error.

Allward led off the next inning with a single and eventually scored from second on Wike's single. The last run was scored by Wilson. He led off the fifth with a single and went to second on a perfect sacrifice bunt by Rockwell. Horton knocked him in with a line single.

Glenn golfers Beat Churchill

WAYNE — Three Westland Glenn golfers tied for team scoring honors at Fellows Creek Golf Course yesterday as the Rockets outclassed Livonia Churchill, 173-210.

Playing the par 36 front nine, Sam Blaney, Jim May and Mark Magee all shot 42's. May birdied the par 5, 475 yard third and Blaney, the par 5, 470-yard sixth.

Medalist was Churchill's Gordon Merna with a 43.

Rockets whip Raiders, 6-5

FARMINGTON — Four runs in the first three innings paved the way for Westland Glenn to take a 6-5 win from North Farmington in a North-west Suburban Association game here yesterday.

The Rockets jumped in front with a run in the first on back-to-back singles by Bill Shellenbarger and Darrell Newsome and an infield out by Kerry Webb.

In the second inning they added two more when Rick Bergeron was hit by a pitch, Ray Viger singled and Bob Briggs singled, scoring Bergeron. A sacrifice fly by Ben Campbell knocked in Viger.

Catcher Andy Kinunen doubled in Bob Russ in the third, Russ had singled and stolen both second and third. The Rockets finished their scoring in the fifth as Bergeron bunted home Webb who had walked and gone to third on a single by Russ. Viger then knocked in Russ.

Shellenbarger was sharp in the first four innings but appeared to tire in the fifth and gave way to Webb. The Rocket ace allowed only two hits the remainder of the way.

Westland Glenn is now in first place in league play with a 2-0 mark. The Rockets are 3-1 over-all this season.

Novi tops Roosevelt; Washington hurts arm

NOVI — Jeff Washington started the game with a triple and came home on a bad throw to third, but unfortunately the Rough Riders could not muster any more runs yesterday.

Roosevelt dropped its second game of the season, 6-1, to Novi. The Riders are now 1-2.

Novi came up with three runs in the third with the benefit of two dropped infield pop-ups and two hits. As if that weren't enough, Washington, the Riders' strating pitcher, hurt his arm.

He came up with a sore elbow and gave up three walks before being forced out of the game.

Novi scored three more times in the sixth, this time getting one earned run, its only one of the game.

The Riders will be back in action at Recreation Park Monday at 4 p.m. against Ann Arbor St. Thomas.

Roosevelt received an outstanding performance from sophomore Dave Hart in the mile run and junior Bart Packard in the low hurdles in its dual track meet with Pinckney yesterday.

The Rough Riders swamped their guests, 83-34, to raise their record to 2-1. Their next meet will be Friday at home against Whitmore Lake.

The young miler turned in his best time ever, 4:52.9, and Packard, besides winning two other events, turned in a time of 22 seconds in the 180 low hurdles.

Blue Knights Bomb Irish

WAYNE — Wayne St. Mary's had its bats booming and Dave Conlin pitching about as well as a pitcher can here yesterday and the result was a sad afternoon for Detroit St. Cecilia's in the teams' Southwest Division Detroit Catholic League baseball game.

The Blue Knights slugged 20 hits, including six doubles, and Conlin pitched a strong two-hitter en route to a 20-1 victory. It evened St. Mary's over-all record at 1-1. The Knights are 1-0 in the league.

St. Mary's scored in every inning but the fifth, capping the massacre with a nine-run sixth.

Seven batters checked in with two or more hits. Ed Szurek had four for six, including a double and three RBIs. Conlin helped the cause with three hits while Jay Breier, Curt Rychlinski, Matt Piscopink, Rick Solarz and Dan Cesarz each collected two hits.

Conlin had a no-hitter until the sixth, when a two-out single spoiled his no-hit bid. He struck out 13 and walked three.

Next game for the Knights will be Tuesday at Detroit St. Andrew.

Lions sign First pick

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions came to contract terms Friday with their No. 1 draft choice, Altie Taylor of Utah State, and hoped scout Jerry Neri's intuition would pay off again.

Neri is the talent hunter who recommended that the Lions draft Mel Farr of UCLA in 1967 and Earl McCullough of University of Southern California in 1968. Each was named the National Football League rookie of the year in his first year with the Lions.

Neri told the Lions front office he was equally high on Taylor, a versatile player who led the Rocky Mountain Conference in rushing last year.

"Of all the collegians I saw last year, and I saw almost all of them west of the Rockies, Taylor has the best chance to jump into the NFL and have a big year," Neri told his bosses.

That was enough of a recommendation and the Lions made Taylor their No. 1 pick. Terms of his contract were not disclosed.

Celtics Trailing Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston's Celtics return home in the unfamiliar position of trailing 0-2 in the National Basketball Association's championship playoffs after Capt. Elgin Baylor took charge of his Los Angeles Lakers.

Baylor took a short rest in the fourth quarter of the second game Friday night in the Forum and returned with four minutes and seven seconds remaining and Boston leading, 106-102.

The 35-year-old all-pro proceeded to score a dozen points, 10 of them in the final 2:32, to lift the Lakers to a 118-112 victory before 17,559, largest crowd ever to watch pro basketball in Los Angeles.

Baylor, with 18 points in the fourth quarter, wound up with 32.

Here's a story:

Talk about inflation...

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—In 1923 a man walked into a store in Berlin and asked about the price of a certain pair of shoes. He was quoted a figure of 3 1/4 million marks. It was 9:30 a.m.

Inquiring again at noon the man found the merchant now asking seven million marks. Being reluctant to pay such a price he waited a half an hour, and then the price was 14 million marks.

Nothing of the sort is likely to happen in the United States, nor again for that matter in any well-developed nation. But it does show in magnified form the disaster of inflation, which turns cash to trash.

American purchasing power also is eroding, although at one of the slowest rates in the world. Brazil, for example, has had 30 per cent annual erosion of its money for a decade. In the United States the rate is 2 per cent or less.

Inflation nevertheless has had a serious cumulative effect in the United States and its getting worse. The present rise in the consumer price index is the greatest since the Korean War.

A family man with two children had to earn $14,282 in 1968 to equal the purchasing power of $5,000 in 1939. Now, a year after the National Industrial Conference Board studied the situation, it probably takes closer to $14,500.

Where did the purchasing power go? Why should more than $14,000 now buy what less than $5,000 bought in 1939? The NICB came up with this answer: Inflation took $7,258, and higher taxes another $2,083.

These two big factors in the decline of purchasing power really aren't in the same category, for taxes are presumed to be returned to the taxpayer in the form of services. But inflation is like evaporation.

Rising like an overheated thermometer, the index of consumer prices is now approaching 126, based on prices of 1957 to 1959 equalling 100. Economic heat of that sort means lots of evaporation.

In the three years which ended at the very start of this year the consumer price index rose 11.4 per cent, but that doesn't tell the entire story. Hospital charges per day, for example, rose 52 per cent.

In fact, the First National City Bank notes in a study of consumer prices, "In varying degrees, inflation is affecting us from the cradle to the grave."

Documenting the sweeping statement, it shows that from December 1965 to the beginning of this year, obstetrical fees rose 21 per cent, baby sitter services 22, legal fees for wills 14, and funerals 10 per cent.

House prices varied greatly from area to area in the same three years but ownership costs generally rose 17 per cent.

Restaurant meals increased by the same percentage, movie admissions by 27, physician fees 21, fishing rods 15 per cent.

That's Business

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP)—The ruling Somali Youth League has been officially confirmed as winner in recent parliamentary elections.

In the second general parliamentary election since Somalia gained independence in 1960, the Somali Youth League won 73 of 123 seats, official returns showed. The rest of the seats were spread among 68 other parties.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Indianapolis teacher David Hallden, serving as an exchange teacher in England, wrote fellow teachers here recently that he was unable to accept their gift of $5.46 worth of smoking tobacco.

British customs demanded more than $50 duty, he explained.

L.E. Lowe, one of the teachers who sent the gift, wrote the British Embassy protesting the charge.

An embassy staff member replied that the duty on tobacco in England is $11.55 a pound, and added that British customs officers were only doing what the U.S. customs officials would do. U.S. customs officer Allen Bell said the U.S. duty on tobacco is 17 1/2 cents a pound, going up to $2.27 for leaf tobacco.

And an unsolicited gift costing less than $10 normally would be admitted duty free, he said.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—The Khmer Press Agency says seven Viet Cong soldiers captured in Cambodia have been turned over to the National Liberation Front representative in Phnom Penh.

Nguen Van Hieu, the front representative said the men would be sent back to South Vietnam.

Shun big business' pitch:

MBA's favor challenge of small firms

NEW YORK (AP)—Although they are sought through ads in college newspapers, wine and dined, taken on expense-free tours, and offered jobs up to $15,000 a year, some of this year's MBA crop is unmoved.

MBAs are among the elite, the most sought after of all graduates. They are the young men with the latest information on management techniques and taxes and budget control.

They hold the degree of master of business administration.

Because of their training they fit perfectly into the structure of America's largest corporations, many of which have sought their services to some extent. But a lot of them aren't buying the big business pitch.

Instead of the stability of big business they prefer the scrap and adventure of the smaller company. Instead of security they seek a more invigorating environment, a chance to participate, an opportunity to advance.

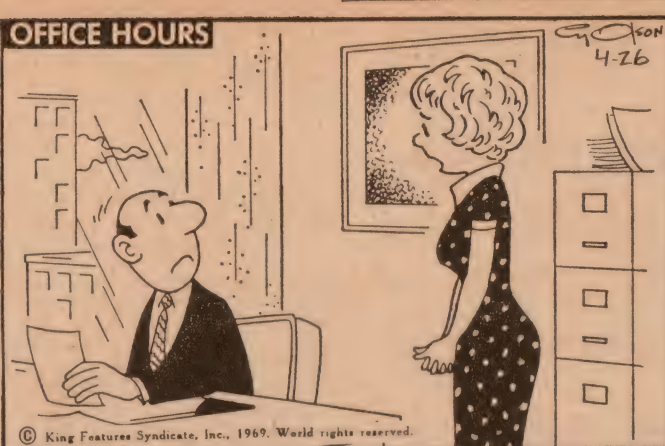

Mike Scott, 27, who graduates this spring from the Wharton Graduate School of Business, University of Pennsylvania, puts it this way:

"Rather than becoming in 5 to 10 years a part of the middle management desert, which is the fate of most MBAs, we prefer to go into smaller businesses with fewer people in management, where you can at least get to know the officers and see decisions made first hand and be able to participate."

Scott isn't alone. Apparently hundreds of MBAs from Harvard to Stanford share his feeling in some degree but often can do little about it. Relatively few end up in small business, which often needs them most.

A spokesman at Michigan State University comments that the sophisticated recruiting drives of the big companies leave little room for smaller companies. "For the past three years the smaller companies simply

"The nervous tension from my first day on this job has me pooped. May I take the afternoon off?"

Crusade upon taxes Just a beginning?

NEW YORK (AP)—President Nixon's tax proposals are perhaps only the beginning of many more that will be brought forth in the next few years, for the tax laws, we are told by experts, are full of inconsistencies.

Experimentation and flexibility are likely to be far more common in the 1970s, for the overly simple thinking that viewed taxes as for raising revenue only, and not tools for social change, seems old-fashioned now.

It isn't only what is wrong with taxes that attracts the attention of reformers. As big a goal is the good that can be wrought by the wise collection and distribution of tax money.

This was recognized by Nixon in asking Congress to release two million poverty-level American families from paying income taxes. This might not put much money in the pockets of the poor, $100 or so, but it is revolutionary thinking.

New thinking, rather than new proposals based on old thinking, is what some critics insist is needed above all today. Trying to torture old ideas to fit new situations, they say, is what permits loopholes.

One of the most glaring inconsistencies was pointed out earlier this year by Joseph Barr, former President Lyndon B. Johnson's secretary of Treasury, who disclosed that 21 individuals with incomes of more than $1 million a year paid no income taxes at all in a recent year.

But there are lesser known areas of the federal tax code that increasingly are criticized. Among the accusations:

—Tax laws promote slums. Major repairs of rental properties by landlords cannot be deducted as maintenance costs in one year, but must be depreciated gradually over a period of many years. This may discourage improvements.

—Tax laws discourage saving and reward borrowing, because interest on savings and dividends on stocks are taxed, while interest paid is tax deductible. This is one reason why corporate takeovers often are paid for in borrowed money rather than in stock.

—Tax laws cause single persons to carry an unfair burden, forcing them in effect to subsidize marriages and babies.

Kelloggs eye purchase To aid firm's expansion

HAMILTON, Ontario (AP)—Directors of Slater Steel Industries Ltd. of Hamilton said today they have accepted an offer by Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., to purchase all shares of Salada Foods Ltd. of Toronto at $17.50 a share.

Slater owns 1,326,569 shares of Salada, equal to 50 per cent of the total outstanding. Slater $23,000,000 for the Salada stock.

Salada rose 25 cents to $16.87, from 7,804 shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange Wednesday. Slater declined 12 cents to $15.62 on 3,250 shares. Slater said the shares were being sold because it needs "substantial funds to finance a major plant expansion." Construction of a second con-cast unit will start immediately. The units produce steel in a continuous billet form instead of by pouring ingots into molds.

Slater said its directors believed it preferable to finance the expansion from the company's own resources rather than through issue of debt securities in the present costly money market.

Surveying The business scene

Action by exchange To limit 'miracles'

NEW YORK (AP)—Fewer miracles may be wrought in coming weeks by the power of corporate debt, which has been the electricity charging the razzle-dazzle financing of some recent mergers.

In the past there have been few limits to what could be accomplished with someone else's money, such as a peanut-size upstart company taking over an elephant-size corporation. Now there is a big limitation.

The action, which is certainly more important than some financial observers at first realized, was taken within the past week by the New York Stock Exchange.

First, it refused to list certain debt securities of two companies. And then it suggested that in the future, companies that use an abundance of borrowings to buy out other firms might, under certain circumstances, face delisting.

Motivating the action were requests by General Host Corp. and NVF Co. to list some of these debt securities on the Big Board.

General Host had issued $16.3 billion of debentures as part of a financial plan to acquire another company. NVF had issued $102.6 million, also in connection with an attempted acquisition of an entirely separate firm.

Now debentures, like bonds, are borrowings. But, whereas bonds are claims on the assets of a company—its real estate, for example—debentures are backed by little more than the ability of the borrower.

In refusing to list these securities for trading, the exchange said it feared that earnings would not be great enough to pay the interest on the debt.

"We think it unsound," said Merle Wick, a NYSE vice president. "Here were companies making money and they issue this sort of security that throws them into a loss position."

The exchange declined to delist the common stock of the companies, which is the security most often traded by the public. But it warned that companies using such financing methods in the future might be tossed off the board.

Why do companies issue such securities if impartial analysts feel them to be dangerous? "The temptation and the opportunity for a small company to take over a big company is certainly very attractive," Wick said.

"From their point of view, the fact that earnings don't cover interest is not so important. They feel they can work it out in the future."

Panel delays Tenure study Of Crockett?

DETROIT (AP) — The State Judicial Tenure Commission Friday apparently deferred a decision to investigate the judicial conduct of Recorder's Court Judge George W. Crockett.

After dismissing all but five of some 30 complaints which had been filed with the commission against Michigan judges, acting commission chairman John H. Gillis was prohibited by constitutional directives from disclosing whether a complaint against Crockett was one of the five.

But critics indicate they no longer center their charges against Crockett merely on his actions in mass arrests made in the New Bethel Church incident, but had broadened their attack by listing what they consider to be a number of unjustified decisions that Crockett has made during his two and one-half years on the bench.

These critics include the Detroit Police Officers Association and Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan.

Three-day Holidays Near vote

LANSING (AP)—A bill that would virtually assure Michigan workers of more three-day holiday weekends was moved into position Friday for final vote in the Senate.

The upper chamber also pulled the state school aid bill from the bottom of the calendar and gave it top priority for initial consideration when the Senate reconvenes Monday night.

The holiday measure, already passed by the House, would provide that Memorial or Decoration Day, Columbus Day, Washington's Birthday, and Veterans' Day be officially celebrated on Mondays.

"This would enable state employees to enjoy four extra three-day holidays," said Sen. Gordon Rockwell, R-Mount Morris.

"It has nothing to do with the general public," argued Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, who pointed out that the measure would amend the state law that designates the holidays to be observed by banks, municipal offices and courts.

It was noted, however, that since the bill spelled out Monday holiday celebration, it could affect employees whose contracts give them time off on those specified days.

The Senate, meanwhile, voted 29-1 to pass a bill making it a misdemeanor to change the mileage registered on the odometer of a motor vehicle offered for sale or lease.

Given preliminary approval and moved up on the Senate calendar were bills that would:

—Make it a misdemeanor to violate certain hunting and fishing rules promulgated by the State Department of Natural Resources.

—Establish a maritime academy at Northwestern Michigan College.

The school aid bill—providing $845.04 million for public schools in the next fiscal year—was at the foot of the Senate calendar because it was one of the most recent reported from committee.

It boosts Gov. William Milliken's school aid recommendations by some $456,000. Republican leaders reportedly aim to pass the GOP version.

Lawyer reprimand Upheld by judges

HOWELL (AP) — A three-judge panel Friday upheld a reprimand of lawyers Stanley Berriman and John Brehnan after refusing to suspend their licenses to practice law.

The State Board of Bar Commissioners had recommended that the two men be disbarred or have their licenses temporarily suspended.

A state bar grievance committee had recommended only a public reprimand of the two men plus payment of committee hearing costs, totaling $1,450.

The Michigan Bar Association, following the commissioners' recommendation, started the proceedings which resulted in Friday's hearing.

Circuit Judges Robert W. McIntyre of Hillsdale, Chester A. Ray of Allegan and Robert M. Ryan made up the panel.

Berriman, a former Howell municipal judge and Livingston County prosecuting attorney, was accused by the bar of not acting "within the standard governing the conduct of lawyers" in his handling of a widow's real estate which he ended up owning.

Brennan, a Brighton attorney, was accused by the bar of cooperating with several other lawyers in seeking to retaliate against a Howell magazine publisher who published in his magazine charges of estate milking and other practices by Livingston County lawyers.

The panel of judges has promised a decision on charges against Howell attorney Martin J. Lavan, charged along with Berriman and Brennan.

The bar has brought charges against six Livingston County lawyers since the investigation began.

Crockett's critics believe he is biased against police.

Meanwhile, a 26-page report endorsed by the law committee of New Detroit Inc., which backs up Crockett's actions, will be submitted to the organization's 39-member board of trustees on May 2.

Endorsement by the trustees would give Crockett support from a panel of the Detroit area's top business leaders, including auto executives Henry Ford II, Lynn Townsend and James Roche; labor leader Walter Reuther; and business leaders Joseph L. Hudson Jr., Walker Cislir, William Jay and Max Fisher.

Chairman Gillis, who is also an appeals court judge, said the Judicial Tenure Commission would continue to work on the five complaints.

The commission, just four weeks old, is the judicial investigating arm of the state Supreme Court.

It has the right to investigate any judge.

The commission, according to Gillis, has had no formal request to investigate Crockett. But the commission can conduct a preliminary investigation at its own motion.

If the JTC ordered a formal investigation of Crockett, the investigation would at that time become public.

If the commission filed a formal complaint against Crockett, it could, after an investigation, recommend to the Supreme Court that he be removed from office, that the court privately censure him, or that the charges simply be dropped for lack of evidence.

Picketing Injunction Granted

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge has granted a request by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) in a suit against the Michigan State Utility Workers for a temporary injunction halting picketing of construction contractors' entrances at seven projects of Consumers Power Co.

The NLRB brought suit after finding that possible illegal picketing which amounted to unfair labor practices existed in the Consumers Power Co. strike.

There will be another hearing May 19. If it is found that Locals 101, 103, 104, 119 and 150 of the Utility Workers of America did picket illegally, a complaint will be issued.

After the NLRB hearing there will be a period for filing briefs.
